Temperatures might have been dipping, but New York City felt just a bit warmer on January 23, when The Winter Show held its annual opening-night party at the Park Avenue Armory. The benefit for East Side House, sponsored by Bank of America, marked the 71st edition of the top-tier art, antique, and design fair and played host to 77 exhibitors from around the globe.

Guests including Michael Bloomberg, Martha Stewart, Peter Marino, Ryan Murphy, and more were on hand to enjoy cocktails and light bites by Canard and to get an early look at treasures including a brooch by Niki de Saint Phalle, Rodin miniatures, a Fabergé botanical study, Tiffany Studios glass, and a sculpture of a cigarette by Tom Wesselmann, among other finds.

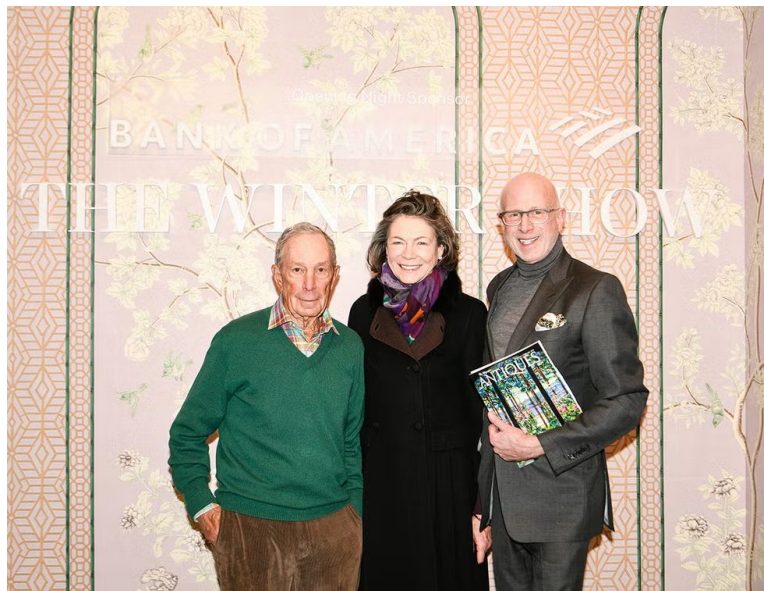

The Winter Show runs through February 2 at the Armory, but this wasn't the only notable event; following the opening-night party, The Winter Show and Cara Cara hosted the annual Design Luncheon on Friday featuring a panel discussion with 2025 design co-chairs Christine Gachot, John Gachot, Elizabeth Graziolo, and David Netto moderated by honorary cocChair Wendy Goodman, and on January 30th there will be a Young Collectors Night fundraiser for East Side House honoring Adam Eli & Adam Charlap Hyman.
